

From: carolyn white <cwhite@hpa.edu>
Subject: Tonight's homework: Story Elements worksheet
Date: September 20, 2011 5:34:33 PM HST
To: undisclosed recipient <cwhite@hpa.edu>
Bcc: bill@hpa.edu
▶ 1 Attachment, 96 bytes

---

Hi everyone,

Hope you had a wonderful weekend. Tonight's homework, the story elements worksheet (only one should be filled out, since there are four copies) in the Reflection Log folder, will have to be completed after reading a book for twenty minutes. If a few books are read, I have asked the class to choose just one book to fill in the story elements worksheet parts. If a chapter book is read, I have asked that your child read only 20 minutes then fill in the parts. Prior to dismissal we spent about 40 minutes going through each section. I would like all the answers to be in complete sentences.

I have also asked that the book be next to your child while doing the worksheet. This is to ensure that access to words will be close. I did ask the class to use the book to get the correct spelling of words that they do know how to spell.

These story elements worksheets will be assigned in the next two weeks. It is in preparation for doing a reflection of a story on binder paper later. This homework will be assigned on Tuesday and Thursday. If these days are not convenient for your child or you, due to extra curricular activities or appointments, please let me know. We can always work something out. 😊

Have a good evening,
Carolyn