

Hotchkiss 2.0

Megan Canniff, '15

This collaboration project is based on the 2013 Hotchkiss Environmental Summit which was used to share resources, goals, and challenges between 60 NAIS representatives. The goal for this project was to get candid student perspectives of the progress made since the Summit. Although only a few schools stayed in contact, I learned about differences in environmental education and the ways in which students view their role at their schools and in their community. Hopefully, this network of schools will grow to become an accessible and constructive way to share research and ideas for future students.
